

- 1 Why is this week's topic important for teamwork?
- 2 Tell me about what you taught someone? And what did they learn, that they didn't know before?
- 3 How do plan on contributing to the team, besides completing your tasks?
- 4 How does your experience relate to other experiences you have had?
- 5 If this was a religion class, how would you relate this week's topic to the gospel?

1 The reason why this weeks topic is important for teamwork is because certain personalities might not work well together. For example, when an extremely shy person is working with a group, they would work better if the person leading the group does so in a "softer manner" rather than in a harsh tone.

2 I taught one of the people in my coding class about differences in personalities and the importance that they can have in a workplace to help employers know who to group up into teams.

3 I plan on contributing to my team by showing them that I care about their personalities and that I want to help them feel comfortable in every situation. I want them to know that I am a caring person and that I will not make them feel uncomfortable.

4 I think that my experience relates to other experiences because I was able to look back and think about how often I didn't realize in a group that I was not handling certain situations very well, due to my lack of knowledge.

5 If this was a religion class, I would relate this week's topic to the gospel by showing how we can always benefit from understanding ourselves more. We can always grow internally by understanding our actions and why we feel compelled to do certain things. It will also help us understand how we might receive promptings and help from the savior.
